Simon is a highly respected advocate who has developed a strong client following. Simon represents clients facing a wide range of criminal allegations. Over his years with the firm he has represented those accused of murder, manslaughter, various sexual offences, offences against the person, fraud and other dishonesty offences. Prior to joining the firm, Simon worked for a firm in the City where he worked on a number of large cases including a £5 million mortgage fraud, multi-million-pound pension fraud and a carousel fraud. Simon also had considerable involvement in the defence of a police officer who was charged along with numerous others with offences dating back to the 1980s following one of the largest anti-corruption investigations in the history of the Metropolitan Police Service.

Simon is a member of the Kent Law Society.
